

Legal Education Review Copyright and Publication Policy

Introduction

This policy sets out the terms under which the Author/s agree to permit the Legal Education Review to (1) publish and reproduce the Manuscript, and (2) permit others to publish and reproduce the Manuscript.

Authors are expected to submit a Manuscript comprising an abstract and article. The article will be published in the Legal Education Review, and the abstract will be published on the Legal Education Review website, www.ler.edu.au. The abstract is also often utilised when inviting someone to referee an article.

1. Copyright of the Author/s

Copyright in the Manuscript remains with the Author/s, who grant the Legal Education Review a licence on the terms set out below to (1) publish and reproduce the Manuscript, and (2) permit third parties to publish and reproduce the Manuscript.

2. Authorship

The Editorial Committee of the Legal Education Review regards the Manuscript as the original work of the Author/s. The Author/s therefore warrant that the Manuscript:

- Is an original work created solely by the Author/s and no part of the Manuscript infringes the copyright of another person;
- Properly attributes any material contained in it not created solely by the Author/s;
- Does not contain any material that is defamatory; and
- Does not infringe any of the rights of any third party.

3. Ethics Approval

The Editorial Committee of the Legal Education Review aims to ensure that all articles published in the Legal Education Review report on work that is morally acceptable. The Author/s therefore warrant that they sought and obtained appropriate ethical approval for any research reported in the Manuscript, and that they have obtained the informed consent of research subjects or interviewees wherever necessary.

4. Sole Submission for Publication

A Manuscript submitted for publication in the Legal Education Review must not have been published elsewhere, or have been submitted for publication with another journal. The Author/s therefore warrant that the Manuscript:

- Has not been published in whole or in part elsewhere;
- Will not be submitted for publication elsewhere whilst it is under consideration by the Legal Education Review; and

- If related to material presented at a conference, has either not been published in conference proceedings or is substantially different to what has been published in the conference proceedings

5. Publication and Reproduction

Author/s grant permission for copies of articles to be made by readers for classroom use, provided they are distributed at or below cost, with the author and journal being clearly identified, and the Review is notified of the use.

The Legal Education Review holds a special relationship with the Australian Law Teachers Association, in that membership of the Association entitles members to receive an electronic copy of the Legal Education Review in PDF form.

The Legal Education Review has relationships with online databases and will make the article available via them, in order to increase the rate of circulation and citation of articles.

The Author/s agree not to make the Manuscript available for third party reproduction in any format including online media and University e-prints databases until one calendar year after publication in the Legal Education Review. After that time, where the article is reproduced, the Author/s will ensure a note is included with the details of prior publication in the Legal Education Review.

6. Review of the Manuscript

In submitting the Manuscript for publication in the Legal Education Review, the Author/s agree to be bound by the decisions of the Editorial Committee. All decisions of the Editorial Committee about whether or not to publish the Manuscript in the Legal Education Review shall be final.

The Manuscript may be:

- rejected by the Editorial Committee before being sent to referees;
- returned to the Author/s for revision prior to being sent to referees;
- subject to a ‘double-blind’ referee process by external reviewers;
- rejected after refereeing, or if requested changes are not made in a timely manner; and/or
- returned to the Author/s for revision at any time after refereeing, after proofing, and/or after typesetting.

The Author/s acknowledge that the above process is to ensure a high quality production with full compliant references.

The Editorial Committee reserves the right to edit the Manuscript to ensure that it conforms to accepted grammatical, presentation and in-house style guidelines and to enhance clarity of expression. While the Editorial Committee will endeavour to consult the Author/s before making such changes, there may be occasions when due to time constraints this will not be possible.

The Author/s approval of the final draft of the Manuscript will be sought prior to publication, unless the Author/s indicate in writing that they do not wish this to occur.
